CASE NO. 2:12-cv-00612-MMD-NJK

STIPULATION AND ORDER TO LIMIT
THE FIRST PHASE OF TRIAL TO THE THRESHOLD ISSUES OF TEC'S RIGHT TO STOP WORK AND THE TERMINATION OF THE SUBCONTRACT

AND RELATED ACTIONS

Plaintiff, The Erection Company ("TEC), and Defendants, Archer Western Contractors, LLC ("AWC"), and Travelers Casualty and Surety Company of America ("Travelers"), by and through their counsel of record, hereby jointly move for an Order limiting the first phase of trial, currently scheduled for December 8-11, 2015, to the threshold issues of whether TEC was justified in stopping work and the termination of its subcontract with Postel Industries, Inc. ("Postel"), on the construction of the new control tower at McCarran International Airport (hereinafter the "Project")

1 On August 13, 2015, the Court provided a minute order stating that the trial in this case would 2 be bifurcated into liability and damages phases (Dkt. No. 259). The Court further stated that upon 3 determining liability, the Court would then decide when to proceed with the damages phase.

4 The parties discussed the best way to approach these separate phases and agree that the most 5 effective way to do so will be to limit the first phase of trial only to liability under limited aspects of 6 TEC's first two claims for relief for breach of contract and breach of the covenant of good faith and 7 fair dealing and limited aspects of AWC's first cause of action against TEC. The issues to be decided 8 in these respective claims are regarding TEC's right to stop work and the termination of its subcontract
9 on the Project due to Postel's and AWC's alleged (1) failure to make payment to TEC; and (2) 10 Postel's alleged abandonment of its subcontract with AWC. Similarly, AWC's first cause of action is 11 limited to the alleged issues against TEC regarding TEC's work stoppage, subcontract termination, 12 and cessation of work/abandonment. The parties agree that a determination of TEC's right to stop 13 work and the termination of its subcontract are threshold issues and may also help foster settlement
14 discussions. Furthermore, the parties anticipate that a trial on these threshold issues will limit the first 15 phase to 4 days.

16 In focusing the first phase of the trial on TEC's limited first two claims for relief and AWC's 17 limited first claim for relief, the parties agree to limit their argument to the factual and legal allegations 18 made in those claims for relief as described herein. The parties agree that the first phase of trial will 19 not include factual evidence or argument regarding TEC's claims against AWC and AWC's 20 counterclaims against TEC (beyond the limited first cause of action described above) including but not 21 limited to: critical path issues (delay), crane time issues, TEC's manpower, TEC's inspection
22 scheduling, actions of Wade Richotte and his removal from the Project, procurement of temporary 23 stairs, air handler storage fees, TEC's workmanship, TEC's alleged negligence, alleged repair work 24 completed by Union Erectors, AWC's scheduling of the work, the alleged false claim submitted by 25 AWC to Travelers, and any other issue unrelated to the alleged failure to pay TEC and the alleged 26 abandonment by Postel, TEC's right to stop work, and the termination of the TEC subcontract. The 27 parties agree that these claims, factual allegations and issues, along with those regarding damages, 28 may be addressed in the second phase of trial. AWC is not precluded from asserting previously

1 submitted defenses/remedies to TEC's claims and TEC is not precluded from asserting previously 2 submitted defenses/remedies to AWC's limited first claim for relief, so long as they are in accordance 3 with the limitations outlined above.

4 The parties agree that the second phase of trial will address the alleged damages of the 5 prevailing party of the first phase of trial. If TEC prevails at the first phase, then the second phase will 6 include the remainder of TEC's breach of contract claims and its claim for relief for breach of 7 contract claim against Travelers/AWC, as well as AWC's defenses and set offs to such claims. If 8 AWC prevails at the first phase of trial, then the second phase will include the remainder of AWC's
9 claims for relief against TEC, including the first cause of action (concerning delay and workmanship), 10 the second cause of action, and the fifth cause of action against TEC/Travelers, as well as the 11 remainder of TEC's claims regarding unpaid work and AWC rights are reserved and not waived to 12 contest such claims of TEC. The non-prevailing party in the first phase may present defenses in the 13 second phase but will not assert any further cause of action for damages pled in the respective 14 complaint, counterclaim or third party complaint (other than noted above). The parties agree that the 15 allegations in these remaining claims for relief are so closely associated with damages, and in many 16 instances are argued in an effort to adjust damage calculations, that it is impracticable not to present 17 them together.

18 Furthermore, the parties agree that for the purposes of the first phase of trial, to the extent the 19 parties will introduce evidence regarding the total amount allegedly owed to TEC, it will be limited to 20 evidence regarding communications between the parties through March 16, 2012. The parties further 21 agree that TEC is permitted to introduce the work orders, invoices, and supporting documents related 22 to Invoices 4601, 4612, 4626, and 4630, and agree that TEC witnesses will only speak as to the 23 general amounts listed on the work orders or invoices unless AWC introduces evidence challenging
24 the accuracy of the same. For the first phase of trial, the parties reserve their rights to address the total 25 amount owed to TEC on contractual, procedural, and legal grounds. The parties also agree that the 26 prove up and/or determination of the exact amounts owed to TEC is reserved for the second phase of 27 trial, if necessary.
28

In the interest of judicial economy and avoiding undue expense to the parties, the parties agree that the second phase of trial should be stayed until the Court has made a decision on the first phase of trial, allowing for at least two months between phases. Furthermore, the parties agree that the witness list, exhibit list, motions in limine and trial brief will be provided separately for each phase. Upon conclusion of the first phase, the parties with the Court's guidance, will agree upon a new schedule for providing a second set of witness lists, exhibit lists, motions in limine and trial briefs in preparation for the second phase.
